Beau Aero

President and Founder of Columbia Safety & Supply

We recently sat down with Beau Aero, president and founder of Columbia Safety & Supply (colsafety.com), to discuss the unique advantages of working within the Fulton Industrial Boulevard corridor and the companies continued excitement to part of the Fulton Industrial district's growth.

Founded in 2005, Columbia Safety & Supply is a nationwide distributor of contractor equipment and industrial supplies, with a particular focus on servicing commercial construction contractors. The company, which ships to all 50 states as well as 53 countries internationally, supplies everything employers need to keep their employees safe and productive while on the job. In 2017, it was named "One to Watch" by Industrial Distribution Magazine. Over the course of its time working within the Fulton Industrial Boulevard corridor, Beau has seen tremendous changes in the growing Fulton Industrial district including safety, infrastructure and beautification improvements.

"Fulton Industrial Boulevard is easy to access, with few traffic issues. Its proximity to the core of the city, to customers, and to the airport, allows for continued business growth," said Beau. "Fulton Industrial district continues to be an incredible value and an excellent long-term investment. We are excited to be part of this district, and help contribute to its continued growth and development."
