Pett Spice Facility

Pett Spice, located at 1725 Westgate Parkway, is a food product multi-processor best known for developing, manufacturing and packaging of seasonings for the meat, poultry, seafood and snack industries. Pett Spice specialties include seasonings for dry and injectable marinades, glazes, salad dressings, soups, sauces, regular and low-fat snack foods, breading, and many more products.

"In 1967, my parents started a family owned business on Wendell Drive and in 1988, I took the helm for the future expansion and endeavors of the business. Eventually, I expanded into a second building on Wendell Drive and moved the business operation to the Westgate Parkway facility, which is double the size of the previous two facilities combined. We've found that it was cost effective to operate a business in the Fulton Industrial District. With the easy access to the interstate highways, the Fulton Industrial District provides the best distribution avenues for my industry.

The Boulevard Community Improvement District best facilitates positive interaction between property /business owners and the government. The BCID is an integral part of the growing industrial community that provides a robust and safe business environment within the District."
